OAEOPP NEWSLETTER

OAEOPP NEEDS TO INCREASE MEMBERSHIP!

It has been my pleasure to attend the MAEOPP board meetings and to hear the reports of other organizations in our region. It wasn't until my experience as a Board member, that I realized that OAEOPP is not one of the strongest states in our region.

I know that many of the "greats" of TRIO hail from OHIO, but our membership numbers at this point are among the lowest of all of the states represented.

Please talk to your colleagues and help us to recruit more members for the association. There is strength in numbers. We are constantly facing challenges regarding funding as well as other political platforms. It is imperative that we grow stronger and involve others that may not work for TRIO.

Allow me to suggest, minority affairs personnel, admission personnel, financial aid personnel, etc. We need to broaden our horizons and most of all, we need to make sure that ALL of the personnel within TRIO understand the need to become an active member of our organization.

Our website is a great selling point. Refer prospective members to our website, oaeopp.org.

OAEOPP ANNUAL CONFERENCE

Plans are being made for the 28th Annual Professional and the 20th Student Leadership Conference. Patricia Melton of Baldwin Wallace College has graciously agreed to chair the committee on Hotel Site and Accommodations. Thanks Patricia!!!

The 2002 conference dates are April 19 – 20 (Student Leadership) and April 21-23 (Professional Conference). Confering with the State House of Representatives reveals that the House is scheduled to be in session on April 23rd. Do we want to visit the Statehouse? Food for thought...

WASHINGTON STATE COMMUNITY COLLEGE NEWS

Upward Bound Students to Receive Training

On November 3rd, 70 students from the Upward Bound program at Washington State Community College will receive disaster training from the local team of the American Red Cross. In response to the tragedies that have occurred over the past several weeks, program director, Gary Williams wanted to provide some activities for the students. "We are attempting to focus our program energies on helping our Upward Bound students deal with the feelings of fear, loss of innocence, anger and bewilderment at why the events of September 11th happened, and what the future holds." The students will participate in a three-hour training that will help equip them with the tools to handle crisis situations in a more prepared fashion. The program held a car wash to raise money for the American Red Cross Disaster Relief Fund. If you are interested in similar training for your program, contact your local American Red Cross office.

Application and Transfer Fair Coming Soon!

Is your wallet getting thin from the fees attached to applying to colleges and universities? Are you interested in talking to a real person rather than pressing 1 to get questions answered? Do you have some free time in the evening on December 6th? Then the Application and Transfer Fair is for you! On Thursday, December 6th, Washington State Community College will be holding its second annual fair to help local students apply to colleges throughout the state. The event, sponsored by Upward Bound and Student Services, attracted over 40 institutions from Ohio, West Virginia, Kentucky and Pennsylvania. "Last year we had approximately 600 students and parents on campus taking advantage of this opportunity," said Amanda Haney, Upward Bound Program Coordinator and event co-coordinator. This is a great way for students to meet with representatives and in most cases, save a little money. All of the institutions that participated last year either waived or deferred the application fee for students who applied that evening. Transfer students can benefit from the event as well. "It's always nice to meet with someone who can help answer questions about transferring credits and about what to expect as a transfer student in that school. Students really appreciate this one-on-one contact, without having to drive to the different campuses," said Jenni Campbell, Director of Advising and Transfer and event co-coordinator. The fair will be held from 6:00-7:30 p.m. on the campus of Washington State Community College at 710 Colgate Drive in Marietta. If you are interested in receiving more information about the fair, please contact Amanda Haney at 740.374.8716 extension 737.

Kent State University Classic UB Students Make the Grade in College Mathematics Classes and UB Olympics

Since 1998, the Kent State University Upward Bound Program has utilized the computer-based ACT COMPASS test to assess all academic year participants and place students in the appropriate mathematics classes for the Summer Component.

Through the continued institutional support of the KSU TRIO Pipeline (GEAR-UP, UB, UBMS, SSS, McNair) as well as the KSU faculty, the Honors College, and the Department of Mathematics and Computer Science we were able to offer our students a unique opportunity that has proven to be highly successful.

Based upon their COMPASS assessment, students who scored high on the mathematics section were encouraged to apply for admission to the University's Early Admissions Postsecondary Options Program. In the summer of 1999, four students enrolled in the Department of Mathematics and Computer Science's 11022 Trigonometry course during the five-week Summer I session:

Lionell Ausmer (2000 graduate of Warren G. Harding High School; enrolled at the University of Cincinnati)

Eric Kotzar (2000 graduate of Windham High School; enrolled at the University of Dayton)

Andrew Roebuck (2000 graduate of Warren G. Harding High School; enrolled at Oberlin College)

Tanee Osborne (2001 graduate of Warren G. Harding High School; enrolled at the University of Cincinnati)

Two of the students earned a 4.0 gpa and two earned a 3.0 gpa in the course. Moreover, one of these students, Tanee Osborne, returned for the 2000 summer and enrolled in the Department of Mathematics and Computer Science's three-credit (11012) Intuitive Calculus class. Ms. Osborne earned her second college A during the five-week Summer I session.

This past summer another WGH junior, Kylia Cuningham, began her college career by enrolling in Trigonometry at the KSU Kent Campus during the KSU UB 2001 Summer Component. After successfully completing this class by earning a 4.0, Ms. Cuningham went on to take the UB Summer Olympics Academic Assessment (using the same ACT COMPASS test) and earned a gold ribbon taking first place!!!

We expect that Kylia will continue her success by enrolling in Intuitive Calculus during the 2002 Summer Component.

Way to go Kylia and KSU UB Students movin' onward and upward!!!!

NEW STAFF ADDS SPARK TO UC CLERMONT TRIO

The UC Clermont TRiO Program started the academic year with two new Academic Advisors for Educational Talent Search. In fact, Dan Schneider, the Director, has the most longevity with just two and a half years with the program. However daunting the task of providing top-notch activities for close to a thousand students may have seemed, the staff rolled up their sleeves and accomplished much more than anticipated.

Bonnie Laube and Christina Griffith, Upward Bound Academic Advisors, offered stability to the program as they began their third year as Academic Advisors for the Upward Bound Program. They wrapped up a very successful year by providing a 6-week intensive academic program with an ocean theme. Not only did they present programs about the different zones of the ocean and the marine life inherent to each one, but the students attended classes in English, Science, German, and Math. The students participated in a presentation for their parents on the last night of the summer program. The grand finale was a 4-day trip to colonial Williamsburg and snorkeling at Virginia Beach.

Angela Burnett and Kimberly Ellison were hired as full time educational advisors for the Educational Talent Search at the beginning of the academic year, so they had to hit the ground running. Rising to the challenge, the two initiated a monthly college tour in which approximately 45 students visited eight different colleges during the year in addition to the regular program activities. Kathryn Freudenberger continued as part time Academic Tutor for the program and Janice Yearwood was promoted to part time Educational Advisor. In addition to the scheduled activities over the course of the academic year, over one hundred students participated in a one-week, intense summer program that consisted of a variety of educational workshops and field trips. Twenty-seven students and four staff members celebrated the end of their year with an eighth grade summer trip to Washington, D.C. In addition to visiting many of the monuments and seeing the White House and Smithsonian, they were able to meet with Congressman Rob Portman.

Just as each of the different programs were starting their summer programs, Marie Kaetzel was hired as the new Administrative Assistant. She immediately set out to reorganize the office space and recruited the rest of the staff to help. Together they unearthed a wealth of supplies while they got to know each other. They are all eager to start the next year's program as a team who is growing closer and more confident in the programs--which is growing to include several new schools this fall.

STUDENT SUPPORT SERVICES RECEIVES GRANT RENEWAL

Student Support Services received notice of the renewal of its federal TRIO grant for another operating period. SSS staff and campus grant-writers collaborated their efforts last summer to rewrite and revise a new grant proposal, asking for funds to continue the services its participants have come to rely upon for college persistence. Word was received in late May from the U.S. Department of Education that SSS would be refunded for another four years.

SSS has also undergone a recent personnel shift that became effective August 6. With Director Steve Gregory's move to the Career and Placement Services office, Mary Ann Malone was named the new Project Director. Elaine Evans assumed the Assistant Director/Counselor position, and Tom Charles will join the staff as a part-time Academic Skills Specialist/Counselor in September. Debbie Schwamberger continues as TRIO Center Representative, and Brian Richards (English/Humanities) and Frank Bryson (Math/Chemistry) will again provide tutoring.

Student Support Services is a federal TRIO program that targets students who are first-generation, who meet a qualifying income level, or who have a documented disability. Services provided to its participants include academic advising, career counseling, professional tutoring, personal counseling, self-improvement workshops, and enrichment field trips. The services are free and participants need only apply one time as long as they persist in their education in good academic standing. New applicants are welcome and should stop by the TRIO Center.
